

The English Department presents

A Reading by John Freeman

and Conversation with Eula Biss

Monday, February 3

5:30 pm

Kresge 1-515

John Freeman is the editor of Freeman's, a literary annual of new writing. His books include How to Read a Novelist and The Tyranny of E-mail, as well as Tales of Two Americas, an anthology about inequality in the United States today, and Maps, a collection of poems. His work has appeared in The New Yorker, The Paris Review, and The New York Times. The former editor of Granta, he is Artist-in-Residence at New York University.